The world moves. It is not so respectable as it was a few years ago to be rascal. People are learning the lesson that clean hands are desirable, both for personal comfort and pleasant social intercourse. They really seem to be learning that purity pays, and that personal honor and incorruptibleness are a good investment. Rogues and rings are having a tough time of it, and it is their own full if the young and ambitious men who are now coming upon the stage of action do not learn to place so high a price upon themselves that neither wealth nor power can buy them. The rascalities of the New York ring are all exposed, and the members of that ring have either run away or are staggering before public opinion and the law, disgraced and degraded men. Bribery in Congress stands exposed and rebuked, while names that were pure have received a tarnish that can never be polished away. Men who have held their heads high in the nation bow those heads in shame over lands which are solled beyond cleansing. We call no names, but scattered up and down the land great reputations lie in rains. Men who had wealth which they stole, and men who had positions which they bought, and men who used their rains. Men who had wealth which they stole, and men who had positions which they bonght, and men who used their public office to push their private schemes, are thrown high and dry out of influence, and lie all exposed upon the rocks of disgrace, where they are sure to rot or go to pieces.

disgrace, where they go to pieces.

If the young politicians of the country will learn the lesson that the facts which we have recounted are so well calculated to teach, better times for the country lie in the fature. Personal advantage is a mean motive to appeal to, where so vital a question as personal purity is concerned, but as there is no danger to morals from any other appeal, it is well to meet temptation on its own ground and fight it with its own wenpons. The lesson of the recent exposures is really needed by temptation on its own ground an ingut it with its own wenpons. The lesson of the recent exposures is really needed by none but those who fancy that they can compass their ends best by base meanes; and if these shall learn from it that, in the long run, nothing pays so well in wealth and power and safety and com-fort as virtue, they will learn that which will be of incalculable benefit to them and to the country. No money was which will be of incalculable benefit to them and to the country. No money was ever won by treachery to trust that did not have the winner. No power was ever achieved by bribery or retained by falsehood that did not scorch the palm of him who held it. The consciousness of ill-desert, the loss of self-respect, the fear of exposure and the self-commitment to a life of deception, which go always with possessions unworthly won, are with possessions unworthily won, are poison in the blood, and the exposure, sooner or later, is as sure to come as death. —[Scribner's for April.

THEES IN CITIES AS DISINFECTANTS. The New York Times, assuming that the meteorologist are correct in assuming that we are to have a cycle of very hot sammers, calls attention to a certain saggestion of an eminent sanitarian in saggestion of an emineal santana ta-the Health Department, Dr. Stephen Smith, as to measures during the coming summer which shall prevent the fatal effects of the expected heat. One of these is to equalize the temperture of the city and purify its atmosphere by causing a large number and variety of shade trees to be set out in various streets and squares. The effect of trees is to cool the temperature in summer and soften the cold in winter. The writer reminds us that in a city like New York a vast quanthat in a city like New 10th a var quan-tity of poisonous gases are being con-stantly introduced by the decay of ani-mal and vegetable substances. These malarial and mephitic gases are sent forth in the greatest quantity day the night. Trees act on these policy a constant disinfectant. It is the constant disinfectant. RAILROAD TIES. - A recent lumberman's road ties in present use in the the Uni-ted States at 150,000,000. A cut of 200 ties to the acre is above rather than under the average, and it therefore has required the product of 750,000 acres of well-timbered land to furnish the supply. Railroad ties last about five years; consequently 30,000,000 ties are used annual ly for repairs, taking the timber from 150,000 acres. The manufacture of rolling stock disposes of the entire yield of 350,000 acres more, every year. It appears, then, that our railroads are stripping the country at the rate of 1,000,000 acres per annum; and their demands are es per annum; and their demands are
